Ex-Chairman Mr. John Wood-Dow of the Project

“It was a hard decision to come to, to wind down operations but we could no longer justify the upkeep of the building, especially as the primary purpose it was set up for is no longer as relevant. It has done some fantastic work over the last 40 years and everyone who has been involved should be really proud.”

Did we make a difference?

So many children stayed at the Centre over the years. Nine individual or couples became wardens during that time. Each brought something new and provided a place where children could feel relaxed and safe. All helped by willing assistants along with boys from Eton College who assisted with holidays for children from Hackney, East London. We also catered for adults including Australian rowers competing in the Olympics. Groups that came to the Centre included children from Oxford organised by Exeter and Lincoln Colleges. Church Youth Groups, Schools and Social Service training courses. Each month we also provided a meal and outings for the local senior citizens.

More recently the Wisdom Project has been hosted at the centre, a scheme set up by the trustees to bring together young people of different faiths and backgrounds to foster inter-faith understanding.
